FARMERS 'IN MIDDLE' IN BITTER SQUABBLE

Record-Herald Boys At Party

LAWRENCE POLLARD, circulation manager of the Record-Herald, dishes out the beans to Record-Herald carrier boys at a Christmas party Tuesday night.

Twenty-five Record-Herald carrier boys were the guests of the management Tuesday night for a Christmas party, held in the rooms above the newspaper.

The youths entered into the Christmas spirit by donating food, which will go to make up a Christmas basket for a widowed mother, sick with cancer, and her three small children.

Food, including baked beans, hot dogs, soft drinks, candy bars and bubble gum, was served to the youths. It was prepared by Mrs. Lawrence Pollard.

Carrier boys played games and were awarded prizes for their

Eight Caught in Raid On Gambling Club

CHESAPEAKE, Dec. 21—(P)—Four weeks of patient undercover work paid off for state liquor agents who, their chiefs said, seized 45 slot machines and arrested eight men at the Colony Club here last night.

The raid was led by state liquor enforcement Chief A. A. Rutkowski, Sheriff Peter A. Burke of Lawrence County and Deputy Marshal C. J. McComas of Chesapeake were in the party.

They carried a special search warrant issued at Ironton by common pleas Judge James Collier. The eight men arrested and jailed were employees of the club, Sheriff Burke said. He listed them as:

W. P. Rollison, 54, of Huntington, W. Va.; Ernest McComas, 25, of Chesapeake; Ray Bryan, 48, Huntington; Earl Erskine, 48, Ironton; Everett Dean, 36, Chesapeake; E. L. Cabell, 48, Huntington; Carlton Robison, 49, Chesapeake; and Earl Massie, 39, Chesapeake. No charges were filed against them immediately.

Last Dec. 12 and 13 a grand jury failed to find evidence of gambling in the county. Rutkowski said last night the slot machines were not displayed during the grand jury investigation but were exhibited again the next day.

The Colony Club is adjacent to the now closed Club Continental, one of five major establishments singled out last March by Gov. Frank J. Lausche in his war on gambling. It is located across the river from Huntington, W. Va.

About 250 persons, mostly women, were playing bingo when the raid began, Rutkowski said. None of the patrons was arrested. Rutkowski said the men apprehended were employees of the club.

"Gov. Lausche has singled out five big-time gambling places in Ohio," Rutkowski said. "The governor issued a public statement that all the resources and all the power of the state will be used to close them."

"I am carrying out my orders from Gov. Lausche in raiding this place."

He described the bingo game as a "come-on for the slots." The machines yielded $786.80, he said.

Artificial Eye Exploded, Claim

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 21—(P)—Richard Richey, East Liverpool potter, claims his artificial eye "exploded" while he was conversing with a friend and he asks $15,000 damages from the manufacturer, Mager & Gouzelmann, Inc., of Cleveland.

His action in common pleas court alleges the eye "exploded in the socket" while he was sitting in a restaurant Sept. 29 and he suffered embarrassment, great humiliation, physical injury and loss of work.

Margaret Wonderful But Singing Criticized

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(P)—A packed Carnegie Hall audience gave Margaret Truman an enthusiastic ovation last night, and the music critics thought she was wonderful.

But they didn't think he voice was quite as pleasing as she was. The president's daughter, making her New York debut in a program carried over the network of the American Broadcasting Company, was accompanied by Frank Black's orchestra.

Her children, Michael Kovar, 18, efforts, as a preliminary to the feed and exchange of gifts which followed.

Dick Dixon, Bobby Welch, Bruce Wickensimer, Claude Coulter, Robert Haynes, David Whiteside, Jerry Donohoe, Dick Dawson and Darrell Bowen.

Queen Dances With Footman

LONDON, Dec. 21—(P)—The queen danced with the footman and the princess danced with the clock-winder last night in Buckingham Palace's annual household Christmas party.

The palace staff gave the traditional party.

Queen Elizabeth, in diamond tiara and flowing green gown, waited with the liveried footman. Princess Margaret, sleek in rose and pink, swirled over the glassy floor with the man in charge of the palace's famous collection of French gilt clocks.

Until the wee hours of the morning they danced with other members of the household staff.

King George, still recuperating slowly from a long-suffered leg ailment, sat on the sidelines.

"I am carrying out my orders from Gov. Lausche in raiding this place."

He described the bingo game as a "come-on for the slots." The machines yielded $786.80, he said.

Winter Is Coming But Day Uncertain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(P)—Winter arrives at 11:24 Eastern Standard time tonight, bringing with it the shortest day of the year.

But which day; today or tomorrow? Time experts aren't sure. The fellow who checks on time for the U. S. Naval Observatory says he's willing to bet today is the shortest of the year in the eastern time belt.

But for the records, he's playing it close. He'll just say today and tomorrow will be the shortest days.

There will be only a few seconds difference and it would take hours of tedious calculating to determine which day actually will be the shortest.

Lion Kills Woman Despite Beating by Children

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif., Dec. 21—(P)—With a roar, a savage lion sprang at a widely known carnival woman animal trainer and quickly killed her while her horrified children tried courageously in vain to save her.

Mrs. May Kovar Schafer, 42, was in the cage yesterday with the lion, Sultan, attempting to break him into training. The powerful animal lunged at her, bowed down and bit her in the neck, severing the spine.

Her children, Michael Kovar, 18,

Obeisance Paid By People Under Heel of Russia

Speculation Rises Over Successor As Dictator Reaches 70

MOSCOW, Dec. 21—(P)—Russian leaders hailed Joseph Stalin in his 70th birthday today with a massive celebration, and the Soviet leadership took the occasion to renew Russian claims that Communism and capitalism can exist together in peace.

Georgi Malenkov, deputy prime minister and considered close to Stalin, sounded the peace keynote in Pravda, the official newspaper of the Communist party, by laying heavy stress on previous statements by the prime minister that peace was possible between the two ways of life.

A special 12-page edition of Pravda honoring Stalin today also carried an article by Vyacheslav M. Molotov, former foreign minister, who relinquished that post to devote himself to duties as deputy prime minister.

While Malenkov spoke of peace, Molotov lashed out against the United States and Britain, charging them with preparing for a new war, and with planning world domination "with the help of any aggressive means, including the atom bomb."

Organization of the most tremendous celebration ever tendered one man spread from Moscow over nearly half the world.

Promises for Presents

Workers under Communist rule sent glowing pledges to "the genius Stalin," promising greater production, greater loyalty, greater struggle for peace and greater purges of Communism's enemies.

Birthday gifts poured into Moscow in an unending stream of freight cars, trucks, cars, airplanes and sleighs.

Cities and streets and mountains in every corner of the vast area which now pays obeisance to the Soviet Union had their historic names changed in honor of this one man -- there were Mount Stalins, Stalin Boulevards and Stalin cities.

Lesser Communist leaders everywhere have whipped their followers into a frenzy of com-

2 Murder-Suicides With Same Pistol

COVINGTON, Tex., Dec. 21—(P)—A stocky, dark-haired youth died today from a pistol bullet he fired into his head after killing his beautiful childhood sweetheart.

"Now that pistol has figured in two tragedies," said Sheriff Charles Garrison. "I think I'll take it and throw it in the deepest well I can find."

George Clements, 19, pumped three bullets from the pistol into blue-eyed Marilyn Forston, 17, yesterday. She died instantly, and he shot himself. He died at 1:25 A. M. without ever regaining consciousness.

Last summer, George's brother, Robert, 27, used the gun to kill his father-in-law, Charles Avery during a family quarrel. Then Robert shot himself, and he died.

OSU To Get $10,000

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 21—(P)—E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and Co. today announced its second annual grants-in-aid to universities for use in fundamental chemical research. Ohio State University at Columbus, O., received $10,000.

Elam said he had stopped his truck to aid two men who waved a gasoline can at him as they stood beside the highway. When he stopped, both threatened him with guns and took the cash from his pocket, he reported.

Plot To Blow Up CIO Headquarters In Detroit Fails by Hair's Breadth

DETROIT, Dec. 21—(P)—Dynamiters attempted to blow up the CIO United Auto Workers' headquarters last night.

They failed, but only by a hair's breadth.

A stack of 39 sticks of dynamite wrapped in tape and colored Christmas gift paper, was found at a side stairway of the union building.

Two fuses had burned to within an inch or less of the explosives before they sputtered out, harmlessly.

Except for two night workers, the union building was empty. However, lives were imperiled in a neighboring General Motors building.

As a result, authorities were confronted today with a new task in solving mysterious acts of violence against the big auto union and its leadership.

Within less than two years would-be assassins have tried to kill two of the UAW's prominent Reuther brothers.

Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, was shot by an unknown assailant in April of 1948. He almost lost the use of an arm.

Victor Reuther, the union's educational director, lost an eye in a similar shotgun attack last May.

Both of the shootings still are unsolved.

Police immediately linked last night's incident with the attempts on the Reuthers' lives.

There is "no doubt" of it, according to Inspector Joseph A. Krug of the police special investigation squad.

One long-held theory has been that a vengeful conspiracy is afoot against the Reuthers and the union.

An anonymous call to a Detroit newspaperman led to what was at first a vain police search at the union headquarters.

Later two union employees came upon the wrapped sticks of explosive, tied up in gay red and white Christmas paper.

The destructive package lay at an outside stairway not far from the adjacent General Motors Research laboratory.

Had there been an explosion, lives might have been lost, police said. A number of workers were in the GM laboratory.

Inspector Albert Langtry of the police scientific laboratory said there was enough dynamite to have destroyed the three-story brick UAW building.

Needed Relief and Habitual Chiselers

Most of us every now and then hear reports of relief chiselers, some right here in our own community.

Sometimes these reports are correct, sometimes the rumors are false.

Most everyone knows that the officials in charge of relief are imposed upon at times. This has made them rather careful in their investigations. It is nothing new and it happens in every locality, but there are a few families which make a practice of chiseling. There are other families, far more deserving of help who are too proud to let their wants be known.

An article about relief chiseling in Detroit, in a recent Saturday Evening Post, paints a sordid, and depressing picture. Some people get on relief and won't get off. They get relief while out of work, then get jobs which they do not tell about and keep on getting relief. There are social workers who use words instead of thought, thus contributing confusion. The story has stimulated many other communities to begin serious looking into their own relief situations, wherein similar evils are turned up.

We need to be clear in discussing this. First, people on relief are a comparatively small percentage of the nation. Second, those who abuse relief are a small proportion of those who get it. It must always be remembered that most people work and earn their own living with diligence and self-respect. No one wants people who need relief to go hungry and cold without it. Most such help is needed. Only the abnormal comes up for public examination. But all relief rolls should be gone over, cleaning out chiselers. Stealing is stealing no matter what one calls it.

Because cities are large and government seems far off and impersonal, it is time that all Americans faced what is so plain in smaller communities—the fact that it is just as wrong to take unfairly from a group as from an individual. A family on relief when it does not need to be is stealing from its friends and neighbors. Relief is a temporary help over disaster; it is never a right which one may choose to take instead of a job. Some of these spades needs to be called spades. They are digging money from working folks and character from those who chisel.

Importance of Formosa

The interesting idea that the Communists cannot stabilize the economy of their new China until Formosa is captured and the Nationalist blockade is broken has been advanced by a high Communist official, Jao Sze-shin. Formosa is the one piece of Chinese real estate which it seems possible to salvage, and the maintenance of the coastal blockade is the one activity in which friendly governments could, if they wished, even now give practical material aid to the Nationalists.

There may be significance in this admission by Jao, who is political commissar of Communist East China regional area. It amounts to an admission that economic stability for China depends on assistance from, or at least on trade with the West. The sea blockade has no effect on communications between Communist China and its powerful friend and advisor to the westward, Soviet Russia. But Russia can give to China neither the material things nor the skills needed by the Chinese economy.

AN Open Letter to Joe Stalin

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK.—(P)—To Joseph Stalin, care of the Kremlin, U. S. S. R.

Dear Joe:

Congratulations, old Tovarich of wartime, on your happy anniversary. You'll wake up on the shortest day of winter to find yourself 70 years old — the life span allotted to man by the Bible you studied as a boy.

They tell me it's to be the biggest birthday party in history, celebrated by ringing bells and booming guns, with caviar all around, and so much vodka on the house that a man couldn't drink his share with two straws. They say you couldn't have won more gifts if you'd guessed the tune on the "Stop The Music" quiz.

I sure would like to attend your big hoo-doo. You Russians really know how to throw a party! The last one I attended was in 1945 when we linked up with your boys on the River Elbe. I was carrying a rifle for Uncle Sam at the time. We were shy of caviar and vodka, but we tanked up on German wine and traded our rations back and forth.

It was a wonderful time. We laid aside our guns, your boys and our boys, and laughed and drank together on the river's bank—end nobody was afraid of anybody. None of us who was there can ever forget that first day of full peace and happiness after the long years of war.

Circumstances being what they are, I won't be with you in Moscow tomorrow. But I would like to send you a birthday gift—of advice.

The advice, Joe, is to stop and look around.

For a guy only two inches taller than Napoleon you've come a long way. You were born a poor Georgian boy, Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili, whose father wanted him to become a cobbler and his mother a priest.

But you yourself chose to be a revolutionary, and chose as your party nickname—Stalin, "man of steel." You've lived up to your nickname.

Your iron will carried you through seven exiles to Siberia. You fought your way up through Bolshevik ranks, and you let 1,000,000 farmers starve to death because you thought you knew what was best for Russia.

Perhaps you did. You have reached heights of power unknown to any previous Russian ruler. You unified your country in uneasy peace—purging by blood all who stood in your path—and you saved your country in a mighty war.

Every step of the way you said your acts were dictated by a desire to help the common man—the working class. Practically all leaders say that.

Well, Joe, now's the time to put up or shut up.

What the common man in all lands has yearned most for is a period of peace and prosperity stretching endlessly ahead for him and his children. The common man everywhere, including the Russian, is sick of shedding his own blood.

The common man aren't mad at each other. And they won't be if their leaders won't sic 'em on.

The Russian working man, like the American, wants a better house, better schooling for the kids, a few new gadgets around the kitchen to keep his old woman happy, and more meat on the table.

And if you want to be remembered with real love by all the little Ivans of Russia, Joe, that's what you'll give them—instead of three more battleships and 1,000 more submarines. There are no enemies at your gates.

You've got the power, Joe, and if you use it wisely maybe God will give you added years to turn your Russia into the wonderland of plenty you have promised so often. But you can't do it by building army on army. Remember what you yourself once said, Joe:

"History shows that invincible armies do not exist."

Let's really start beating those swords into ploughshares, old timer.

Sincerely, Pvt. G. I. Joe (retired to mister.)

Looks Like Political Census, too

By George E. Sokolsky

The 1950 census will ask every fifth person what his income has been for the year 1949. Why every fifth person and not each person, or every tenth or every one-hundredth person, must be some twist in the statistician's mentality.

There is no reason why the census should ask a question that has already, with all due regard to secrecy, been answered. The internal revenue bureau receives each year, on a short or a long form, precisely, and in detail, the information that the census bureau wishes to have. That data is duly compiled and processed and the pertinent statistical data finds its way into numerous documents, notably the statistical abstract of the United States, published by the United States department of commerce of which the bureau of the census is a part. Data gathered from such statistics are also found, in due course, in the system and the world almanac.

Why then does the census need reports of the federal reserve local snoopers, unskilled and per diem, name counters to duplicate work already done, usually with great care and often by skilled accountants?

Philip M. Hauser, who directs the bureau of the census, must be an extraordinarily inconsistent thinker. He depends invading the privacy of the citizen, making the provision that if one objects to a local snooper, a sucker list agent, a lawyer's tout getting the data, the citizen can mail it to Mr. Hauser's office.

He depends that method on matters of income, the data concerning which is readily available to him as it is to you and me, in statistical, objective, non-personal forms. But he is opposed to a census of religious affiliation. He wrote me:

"Although the bureau has congressional authority for the collection of data relating to religious organizations and has conducted periodically Census of Religious Bodies, a question on the religious affiliation of individuals has never been asked in the general population census. However, the possibility of making one or more inquiries of this kind has been considered on a number of occasions, in connection with earlier census as well as for 1950. The bureau received a great many letters concerning the matter prior to the 1940 Census and of these, as many or more were registering a protest against the inclusion of questions on religion as were in favor of them."

And the Bureau will take no such census in 1950. Mr. Hauser stated that even religious denominations oppose such a census. The Association of the Statisticians of American Religious bodies met in November in Philadelphia, under the chairmanship of Dr. W. S. Kerschner. In 1958, this same body had passed a resolution favoring the inclusion of such statistics in the 1940 census. Since then some religious groups have feared the consequences of such data and frankly say so.

Their childish and utilitarian fears should not influence us as a people who ought to have accurate data concerning the social institutions of our country, whatever they may be. So at the meeting in November, the final vote on the resolution to include religious statistics in the census was five in favor and five opposed. The tie was broken by the presiding officer, Dr. W. S. Kerschner of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, who voted against the resolution, making the vote six to five. The Roman Catholic member voted in favor of collecting the data on the census; the Jewish member voted against such information. Some of the Protestant denominations favor the census; others oppose it.

Mr. Hauser's letter to me was dated before the Philadelphia meeting occurred. Nevertheless, the vote at that meeting was so close as not to justify the assumption that religious groups and their statisticians are opposed to the data being gathered and published.

Since Mr. Hauser defends snooping in matters of personal income, already available without snooping, his philosophy of privacy does not hold up. And many will refuse to give his investigators income data, referring them to their income tax statements, already filed and duly sworn to. Let Mr. Hauser get his figures from the bureau of internal revenue—and save the citizen some money in taxes by cutting down bureaucratic duplication. This is one for the Hoover committee.

Diet and Health

Anemia Treatment Not Always Same

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IRON-CONTAINING preparations are the classic remedy for many forms of anemia, the condition which results when the number of red cells in the blood and the coloring matter are lessened.

Sufficient iron, given by mouth, has been found effective in many cases of anemia produced by bleeding, infection, and failure to get enough iron-containing foods.

Iron By Mouth

However, no remedy succeeds in all cases. The giving of iron by mouth is sometimes ineffective because certain individuals do not absorb it properly; in others it causes digestive disturbances, such as sickness at the stomach, loss of appetite, and diarrhea or constipation. These are particularly likely to occur if the iron is poorly absorbed or given in too large doses.

In such cases, only part of the iron is absorbed, while the remainder passes into the lower bowel where it irritates the lining membrane. As a matter of fact, it has been found that after the dose reaches a certain amount daily, even its increase will not bring about further absorption of iron.

Alternative Method

All these considerations make it desirable to have an alternative method of giving iron. This has recently been found with the perfecting of the technique of giving iron by injection into a vein, using a preparation known as colloidal ferri-oxide or hydroxide.

When given in this way iron seems to have a more stimulating effect on the bone marrow where blood is formed than when given by mouth. Another advantage is that the iron content of the liver increases two to three times. This stored iron gives a source on which the body can draw to overcome anemia.

Several Precautions

There are several precautions to be observed in giving iron by injection. In the first place, most doctors believe that it is not advisable to use this method at all in elderly people or those with high blood pressure.

The injection must be given slowly and the iron-containing solution allowed to run into the veins over a period of several hours. There are other preparations which can be given more rapidly, but when these are used care must be taken not to give too large a dose since such symptoms as sickness at the stomach, a feeling of heat, and headache may develop within 30 minutes to two hours later.

With proper care in their use, however, iron injections give us a valuable new method for the combating of anemia.

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP)—Two important, well-dressed men are now chatting in Moscow.

One of them, Joseph Stalin, the world's No. 1 communist, is having a birthday, his 70th.

And the other, Chinese Mao Tze-Tung, the world's No. 2 communist, traveled, he said, clear across Asia by train to help celebrate the birthday.

But is it reasonable to think that while they're sipping tea they're discussing something more important than blowing out candles on a cake.

It seems more than a coincidence that the communist followers had pretty much the same time as the journey just about the time his nearly mopped up China.

In fact, while the non-communist world is reflecting on the events of the first half of the 20th century, now coming to a close, the two men in Moscow may be laying plans that will shape the second half of the century.

For if only one thing stands out in the past 50 years, it's this: the western capitalist world has lost ground tremendously to communism and may lose a lot more in the next 50 years.

Indeed, as the second half of the century draws near, the most important questions the world faces are these:

How much of the world will communism gobble up? Where will it stop? Can it be stopped? Will the communist states pull together or break up and quarrel among themselves? Will there be a war between the worlds? Will capitalism win? or, if communism should be crushed, will capitalism remain or will it slowly change into socialism or something else?

The population of the world is about 2,264,000,000. Of that total one in every three—or about 777,000,000 people—is living under communism.

It breaks down this way: Albania, 1 million; Bulgaria, 7 million; China, 462 million; Eastern Germany, 17 million; Hungary, 3 million; Romania, 16 million; Russia, 211 million; Yugoslavia, 15 million; Czechoslovakia, 13 million; Poland, 24 million; Northern Korea, 9,000,000.

So, as the second half of the century opens, the first big ques-

Wipe Out TB, Job for 1950

Pledge Made By Counties

The Fayette County TB Health Association will be one of 88 such groups in Ohio to go all out in 1950 in the battle to wipe out tuberculosis.

This renewed effort was pledged at a meeting of the board of directors of the state TB association attended by Frank Grubbs of Good Hope, one of 87 representatives from the county associations.

The representatives sat down in conference to discuss the latest methods of protecting every citizen from catching tuberculosis.

Over 9,000 new cases of the disease were reported in 1948 in Ohio. This is the largest number ever reported, being 1,700 more than in 1947. The division of tuberculosis, Ohio Department of Health, has estimated that there are about 20,000 cases in Ohio that are not known, even to the person who has the disease.

"The economic problem of tion to be faced is this: where will communism push next? backed by the United States.

The western European countries, stand as a bulwark, at least for the time being, against any communist desire to move west to the Atlantic ocean.

And in China the communist government of Mao Tze-Tung would seem to have its hands full for a while in straightening out affairs in China which it has just taken over.

But the southern fringe of Asia, not now communist, may look like a reasonably soft touch to Stalin and Mao Tze-Tung for the next move.

Along the southern edge of Asia are four countries with a total population of around 461 million people; India, 400 million; French Indo-China, 27 million; Thailand, 17 million; Burma, 17 million.

With pressure from communist China, and from communists within those countries, the last three—Indo-China, Thailand, Burma—might seem good spots for a push. At least Stalin and Mao Tze-Tung will probably consider the problem while standing around the birthday.

car for the tuberculosis is a terrific one," Arthur W. Fisher, a member from Cuyahoga County, told the board. Mr. Fiske, in discussing the legal problems involved in making investigations of the ability of patients to pay for their own hospitalization, pointed out that the hospitalization of the tuberculosis was costing Ohio citizens almost 10 million dollars every year. Mr. Fiske, a former member of the Ohio legislature, was responsible for the tuberculosis subsidy law of 1947 which aids counties in hospitalizing their tuberculosis patients.

According to Dr. Azel Ames, president of the association, the all-out program for 1950 includes concentration on these four major points:

(1) Finding the Active Case of Tuberculosis. Our organizations in every county are constantly conducting mass X-ray surveys, clinics and tuberculin testing programs. The object of all this is to discover hidden cases of tuberculosis. We will step up this program as much as our finances allow.

(2) Hospitalization of All Active Cases. The best place for an active case of tuberculosis is in a hospital. This is for two reasons: (a) hospitalization of the patient prevents the spread of the disease to other people, (b) modern methods of treating tuberculosis can save the patient's life.

(3) Rehabilitation. This means to train the patient so he can earn a living when he gets out of the hospital. There is more to it than that. If a patient has been accustomed to doing heavy work, he cannot hope to do that same kind of work after his disease is halted. Through rehabilitation we teach the patient to support himself in some kind of an occupation that does not endanger his health.

(4) Aid to the Family. Over 94 percent of the patients admitted to tuberculosis hospitals cannot pay the cost of their hospitalization. When the breadwinner in a family goes to a tuberculosis hospital, the community is faced with the problem of supporting the family, if it cannot support itself.

"The extent of this entire program will depend upon the outcome of the annual Christmas Seal Sale in every county," William A. Brungs, Columbus, the auditor of the association, told the board.

All of our work is supported by money from the sale of Christmas Seals. Our program will be controlled by what the community indicates it wants through their purchase of the gay little Seals."

BPW Annual Christmas Party Is Held Tuesday Evening

The annual Christmas dinner meeting of the Washington Court House Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Country Club on Tuesday evening with seventy-eight members and guests present.

The members of the music committee, with Mrs. Helen Graham chairman, was made up of Miss Marcia Highley, Miss Mary Jane Hyer, Mrs. Phyllis Thornhill, Miss Ellen Buchanan, Mrs. Helen Briggs, Mrs. Doris Diffendal, Mrs. Edith Chamberlain and Mrs. Mary Gillispie.

The club lounge throughout was transformed into a cheery atmosphere with gay Christmas decorations, and a huge lighted Christmas tree. Tables seating the group for a delicious turkey dinner carried out the yuletide theme with a profusion of evergreen, Christmas balls, and candles in the form of Christmas boots and Christmas trees.

Before the serving Mrs. Edith Chamberlain read the Club Collect and between courses Christmas carols were sung. Later Mrs. Dorothy Miller club president conducted a brief business session, which was followed by a well chosen program opening with a vocal duet "Silent Night" by Miss Jean Everhart and Miss Mary Jane Hyer. They sang from the balcony by candlelight accompanied by Miss Marian Christopher. Mrs. Olive Icenhower sang beautifully "O Holy Night" accompanied by Mrs. Betty Steen. Miss Marcia Highley read the Christmas story found in St. Luke and Miss Ellen Buchanan presented as a vocal solo "No Candle Was There, No Fire", accompanied by Miss Christopher. Mrs. Steen presented two well rendered piano solos, "Poetic Fancies" and "The Wedding of The Painted Doll".

The program, with each number standing out in artistic ability was thoroughly enjoyed.

Later as the group sang "Santa Claus is Coming To Town", a jolly Santa appeared in the person of Mr. Don Gibson assisted by Mrs. Doris Diffendal, who presented gifts from a Santa Claus Post Office in the foyer to each person present. That highlighted the pleasant evening and provoked much mirth.

Guests included were: Mrs. Fannie Smith, Mrs. Lillian Trueblood, Mrs. William Boylan, Mrs. Byron Hinton, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Miss Marian Christopher, and Miss Barbara Manahan a high school student who is the Business and Professional Women's "Girl of the Month".

No Active TB Found at Clinic

Report Made By Health Dept.

The health department revealed today that no active cases of tuberculosis were uncovered at the chest clinic last Friday.

At that time, 34 adults and children were examined through the health department's fluoroscope by Dr. Damon E. Wetterauer, chest specialist and medical director of Mt. Logan Sanatorium.

The majority of the people examined were "contact" or "suspect" cases, Miss Gretchen Darlington of the health department explained.

The "contact" cases are those people who have been in touch with a person known to have active tuberculosis. The latter are those who are suspected to have tuberculosis.

Dr. Wetterauer usually recommends that the "contacts" come back every three months for a chest examination over a period of a year if they have no further association with a TB carrier. As long as they remain in contact with a TB carrier, however, they are asked to keep coming to the clinics every three months.

About half of the people who came to the health department Friday, were attending their second clinic, Miss Darlington said.

Reports on each person examined are now being sent to the family physicians.

Almonds, pecan, and walnuts are all suitable for poultry stuffing. Add the nuts to the stuffing just before putting it into the fowl.

Rainbow Class Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party of the Rainbow Class of the First Presbyterian Church, was held Tuesday evening at the home of their teacher, Mrs. W. W. Humphries.

The home was decorated beautifully with elaborate Christmas decorations, made up of a Nativity scene on the mantel in the living room, and a huge lighted Christmas tree.

The devotionals were built around the December scrapbooks, of the Nativity scene as taken from Luke, and the singing of Christmas carols.

Games were enjoyed by the girls, who had clever cut-out dolls pinned on their backs, with names of toys inscribed, and in the guessing of the correct toy, Joy Garner and Janet Briggs were awarded the prizes. In another game pertaining to Santa Claus, the award was won by Wilma Brown and Martha Parrett. In the last contest, Jane Moomaw won the prize.

Gifts were exchanged around the tree and dainty refreshments of ice cream molds of Christmas bells, cookies and candy were served the girls.

Hostesses were Linda Halliday, Mary Ann Donohoe, Jane Moomaw and Jane Davis. Mrs. Walter Beatty, assistant teacher and William Humphries also assisted during the evening, and twenty-two members were present for the special event.

Garden Club Entertained At Christmas Party

The home of Mrs. William Summers Jr., was gayly decorated in a festive Yuletide theme when she was hostess to the members of the Washington Garden Club for the annual Christmas party with eighteen members present. Upon their arrival each member was presented with a lovely Christmas corsage as favors for the evening. The singing of Christmas carols, was enjoyed and Christmas music on recordings furnished soft music during the entire evening. Games were provided by the hostess as entertainment and awards in these went to Mrs. Carl Anders, Mrs. Darrell Williams and Mrs. Earl Horney. Later Santa Claus arrived and presented each member with a lovely gift. Mrs. Summers and her assisting hostesses Mrs. Ray Johnson and Mrs. Thomas N. Willis served dainty refreshments carrying a clever Christmas motif to bring to a close a most pleasant social event of the club.

Christmas Visit Made To Hospital By Auxiliary

The annual Christmas visit to the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, was made Tuesday afternoon by the American Legion Auxiliary under the supervision of the rehabilitation chairman Mrs. Charlene Malone. Mrs. Leland Stevens and a group of her expression pupils accompanied the members to present the afternoon program for the 42 patients in 211D and 25 patients in the insulin ward. Those appearing in the program in the expression group were: Jeanne Coil, Beverly Coil, Mrs. Willis French, Mrs. Hobart Coil and Mary Elizabeth French, David Foster as pianist, Jack Biddle in a dance number and Norman Looker in a clever reading. Mr. Elmer Simerl as Santa Claus presented gifts of candy canes, popcorn balls and cigarettes to the patients. Christmas carols sung by the group were joined in by the patients. The programs for the carols were furnished by the Bloomingburg High School typing class of Mrs. J. Roush Burton, and the patients entered into the song fest wholeheartedly. Additional gifts taken by the Auxiliary were left to be distributed to the patients on Christmas morning. Refreshments of hot coffee, decorated cup cakes, cookies and candy furnished by ladies from Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville were served.

Those making the trip in addition to Mrs. Malone and the entertainers mentioned were Mrs. Arthur Herbolzheimer, Mrs. Lawson Rhoads, Mrs. William Lucas Sr., Mrs. Daisy Leeth, Mrs. Lora Post and Mrs. Pearl Faye.

Mite Society Christmas Party

Thirty members and one guest of the Wesley Mite Society assembled in the New Fellowship Hall at Grace Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon for the annual Christmas party of the society. A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. John Markley opening with the singing of the Christmas carol, Silent Night. Mrs. Damon Merritt was devotional leader using as her

Garden Clubs Combine For Christmas Party

The home of Mrs. W. P. Noble in Bloomingburg was the scene of a lovely event when she entertained the members of the Town and Country and Buckeye Garden Clubs who assembled for a combined Christmas party. The rooms throughout were bright and cheery with gay mantel decorations and miniature lighted Christmas trees. A delicious covered dish dinner was served to the thirty-nine members of both clubs, buffet style and small tables seated them for the congenial dinner hour. Later a social hour was enjoyed during which Mrs. Fred Oswald, the president who is recovering from a recent illness, was called by phone and the group sang the carol "Silent Night" and wished her a Merry Christmas. Mrs. Raymond Scott read "The Story of Christmas Bells" and Mrs. Joe Elliott showed Biblical scenes and other colored flower scenes from a movie projector. The highlight of the evening was the exchange of Christmas gifts which brought the pleasant event to a close. Mrs. Noble was assisted in the hospitalities by Mrs. Hazel Moyer and Mrs. Lucille Creath, vice president was in charge of the arrangements of the evening's program.

Ladies Aid Holds Christmas Party

The Christmas meeting of the Ladies Aid of the First Christian Church was held at the home of Mrs. Hubert Follis Tuesday evening. The home of the hostess was decorated with Christmas suggestions and Mrs. Follis opened the meeting with devotionals reading a Christmas story from the Cincinnati Seminary weekly paper. Mrs. A. E. Weatherly read a poem, and prayer closed the worship period. Mrs. Follis played recordings of hymns and carols by the chorus at the Seminary. The president Mrs. Ottie Stookey presided over the brief business session during which twenty three members responded to roll call. It was decided to buy a five dollar gold brick toward the remodeling of the Seminary, and to send Christmas candy to the Emily Flynn Rest Home. During a social hour gifts were exchanged around a Christmas tree with Toni Weatherly acting as Santa Claus. The president also received a beautiful poinsettia from the class, and seven other blooming plants will be sent to ill members at Christmas. Mrs. C. B. Tigner also received a special gift. The hostess and her assistants Mrs. Weatherly, Mrs. B. F. Morris, and Mrs. Stookey served tempting refreshments.

The Big Four Mysterious 15 Club members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Richard Park for the Christmas party, with Mrs. Loren C. Johnson as her assisting hostess. The rooms throughout were bright and cheery with large red and green balloons and a lighted Christmas tree added to the gay colorful theme. Mrs. Parks presided over a short business session and later games were enjoyed with Mrs. Gerald Roberts receiving the awards. Christmas music on recordings was enjoyed throughout the evening and following a gift exchange around the beautifully decorated dining table, each member received a gift from the president. Later refreshments featuring ice cream molds with poinsettia centers and Christmas cookies were served, with dainty sandwiches wrapped in silver foil tied with red bows. Mrs. Zada Winters was welcomed as a new member by the club and Mrs. Bina Rude was included as a guest. To roast almonds place in a shallow pan in a slow oven and stir them occasionally until the inside of the almonds, when broken, is a light brown. This will take about 25 minutes.

The Spirit of Christmas Too Soon Forgotten

Rev. Father Guenther Gives Rotarians Timely Address

An impressive Christmas talk which took on the dignity of a real sermon was delivered to Rotarians and guests at the club's Tuesday luncheon at the Country Club.

The featured speaker was Rev. Father Otto Guenther who announced that he was taking for his text, "With desolation is the world made desolate because no man considers his heart."

Father Guenther was introduced by John O'Connor and launched into the heart of his subject immediately.

He related how people so often become involved in commercialism, social events and in various activities for their own gain or pleasure that they push the actual spirit of Christmas into the background.

"So much of the time," said the speaker, "most people are doing very little real thinking; their actions are ruled by their immediate desires, feelings and impressions, by their emotions and by their prejudices."

"There are forces at work seeking to destroy our religious ideals. Too many of us give unconscious aid to these forces by honoring God only with our lips while our hearts are far from doing so."

Father Guenther touched on the "curse of secularism" which he said is leading so many people to seek only ease, comfort and satisfying human desires to the exclusion and forgetfulness of God. He declared that even after our United Nations organization started with very feeble effort toward seeking God's guidance, this great organization was failing to recognize fully the need for giving God his proper place in its proceedings. "No wonder," he asserted, "is it so evident that men who do not sincerely seek this divine guidance present a picture of confusion. The picture they seek to present is certain to be muddled and not clear as long as God is left out of it."

Referring to the Lord's Prayer the speaker said that when many people ask "forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us" they seek forgiveness with reservations that they still have the right not to forgive others. "God is ours to love and adore every day not just at Christmas time," he said, and added "we all shall need God next January, May or July as much as we need him today."

In concluding, with solemn emphasis he declared "every one of our days is a gift from God. If we use those days selfishly we are failing our Master and ourselves."

President Paul Pennington thanked the speaker for his vital message and expressed a desire that he repeat his thoughts to the club soon again.

During the business session two new members were introduced to the club by President Pennington. They were Walter Patton, sponsored by Arthur Finley and Arthur Wohlers sponsored by Stephen Brown. After briefly explaining some of the history, the objects and aims of Rotary, the president presented each of the new members with membership pins.

The new Junior Rotarian, Dave Elliott, was introduced by Frank Jean. The outgoing member under this twice-a-month system, Billy Benson, expressed his pleasure at being a club member for the past two weeks.

Wm. Clift, club song director, led the audience in singing a number of Christmas carols. Mrs. Marion Gage, the faithful club pianist, was accompanist.

Yule Program Planned At Harmony Church

The Harmony Methodist Church will hold its annual Christmas program for youngsters at the church at 8 P. M. Friday. The youngsters will make recitations, sing solos and duets—many of them Christmas carols. The congregation has been invited to be on hand for the program.

Suit Is Faced By Meade Corp.

Profits Diverted, Stockholder Says

DAYTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A New York stockholder is seeking to stop the Meade Corp. of Dayton and Chillicothe from buying raw materials and selling its paper products through the Meade Sales Co., an affiliated organization.

The suit was filed in Montgomery Common Pleas Court for Tassie Gottlieb by the Cleveland law firm of Harrison, Thomas, Spanberg and Hall. Gottlieb was not identified further.

It alleges that through the present setup the Meade Co. makes profits which should go to the corporation.

Named as defendants in the suit were directors and "interested persons" of the two organizations and the Meade Investment Co. the firms have holdings in this country and Canada.

The main Meade Corp. plant is in Chillicothe.

The stockholder asked the court to:

(1) Direct the defendants to make an accounting and pay over to the corporation all profits made by them as a result of transactions between the corporation and the sales company, and

(2) To enjoin the defendants from permitting the corporation to buy and sell through the sales company, and to direct the corporation to purchase supplies direct and sell to the highest bidder.

The sales firm has made profits which might have been made by the corporation if it had bought direct and sold to the highest bidder, the suit contends.

George H. Meade, president of the Meade Corp., commented:

He was named as one of the defendants. Others are Murray Smith, E. T. Gardner, N. S. Talbot, John Arthur Brown, Speed Warren, H. T. Meade, and Philip Young, all of Dayton; Charles F. Kettering, inventor of the automobile self starter, of Dayton and

Garden Clubs Cleaning Up Ohio Highways

Attention Called To State Law About Littering Roads

The Ohio Association of garden clubs, which includes the various clubs in Fayette County, is doing something about cleaning up Ohio's littered highways.

The association, through its local members, has started a two-pronged campaign to preserve the beauty of Ohio's scenery and to prevent, as far as possible, the littering of public roads with debris of all kinds discarded by tourists. This applies to streets as well as country highways.

The garden clubs are being backed up in their campaign by a new law passed by the 98th General Assembly last April.

Provisions of the General Code have been amended to read:

"Whoever places or disposes of in any manner any garbage, waste or peelings of vegetables or fruits, rubbish, ashes, cans, bottles, wire paper, cartons, boxes, parts of automobiles, wagons, furniture, glass, oil, or anything else of an unsightly or unsanitary nature along or near or on any public road, street, parkway, park drive, highway, ditch or any land adjoining any public road or highway or ditch except on land provided by a zoning commission, city ordinance or other governmental authority, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, unless directed to do so by public officials special clean-up days."

These items of debris include just about every type of discarded articles usually littering public roads. To put teeth in the law making the littering of highways a misdemeanor, the Solons added a penalty, upon conviction, of $50 fine or imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both.

Detroit; Sidney Ferguson, R. I. Worrell, Clarence Francis, all of New York City; A. H. Hart, Charles R. Van DeCarr, Sr., Charles R. Van DeCarr, Jr., and J. O. Mason, all of Chillicothe; A. G. Goldsmith of Clinton, Conn.; Charles S. Cheston of Philadelphia; Charles W. Deeds of Hartford, Conn.; M. N. Smith of Escanaba, Mich.; Alfred W. Jones of Sea Lion, Ga., and H. Gates Lloyd of Philadelphia.

It is the purpose of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs to educate the public on provisions of this new law and at the same time urge enforcement through interviews with city, county and state officials. In the state Capitol, Irwin Jones, Civic Chairman of the Bexley Garden Club, is active in promoting the association's double-pronged clean-up campaign of "education and enforcement" in Franklin County. Other city and county member clubs are being urged by the association President, Mrs. Thomas Wolfe of Athens, to take the initiative and responsibility for the campaign in their own communities.

Eagles Lodge Plans Dance Monday Night

Announcement was made today that the Eagles Lodge in Washington C. H. plans to hold its annual Christmas dance next Monday night at the Eagles Lodge.

Loren Brock and his six-piece orchestra from Wilmington will play for the affair. The dance, for members and their guests only, will get underway at 9 P. M.

Ordinarily, the dance is held on Saturday night but the lodge decided to change the date so as not to interfere with church programs planned for Christmas Eve.

Jr. OUAM Planning Party for Kids

Youngsters at the Fayette County Children's Home will be in for some fun Friday night, when the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics (Jr. O. U. A. M.) holds its annual Christmas party for the kids.

A program of Christmas carols will be sung by the 60 youngsters at the lodge home. The public has been invited to be on hand for the affair. Members are requested to meet at the I. O. O. F. Hall not later than 7 P. M. Friday.

Charge Bal-pont 'Capture' of Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. Dec. 21.—(AP)—An anti-trust suit for $30,000,000 was filed here against the Bal-pont Banking and Investment Interests of Florida.

The suit, filed in U. S. District Court late yesterday in behalf of the Crummer Co., and R. E. Crummer and Co., investment securities firms, charges the Ball-Dupont interests plotted to "capture" the state economically.

Seven teams--Yale, Columbia, Penn., Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth and Harvard-- compete in the eastern intercollegiate basketball league.

Something Missing This Year From Yule Observance Here

Something will be missing from the Yuletide celebrations here this year. Karl J. Kay's traditional wassail party.

It was back in 1923—that was 26 years ago—that Kay had his first wassail party. It was three years after he joined the high school faculty here. Since then, only one has been missed. That was about 10 years ago. Kay said he tried to postpone it and have it on New Year's Eve. But, he reflected, it didn't go over so well.

This year, Kay said he had another engagement for Christmas Eve "that I couldn't get out of even if I wanted to, which I don't." He is to be a guest at a dinner party in Greenfield.

He said, however, he regretted that he would have to forego his own Christmas Eve observance here.

At the start, the wassail parties were for the members of the high school band and orchestra, both of which Kay organized and conducted for years.

But from that small beginning, they grew into sizeable affairs.

Year after year, the students were augmented by the growing ranks of alumni. The gathering also began to include many pupils from Kay's mathematics and science classes.

After a time, the wassail parties came to serve as a sort of reunion for students and alumni at Christmas time.

'Open House' Status
Eventually, the parties took on an "open house" status and they started early and lasted late.

Kay said no attempt ever was made to keep a guest list or even make a count. Of recent years, it was a small turnout that didn't number more than 50, he said.

What is wassail?

Well, Kay never did go much into detail on his recipe, but the dictionary describes it as a beverage that originated in England centuries ago and used for celebrations at Christmas time and other special occasions.

The old English wassail, the dictionary says, "is a liquor made of ale or wine and flavored with spices, sugar, toast, roasted apples etc."

Just how Kay made his wassail he never would say, but he made it plain that he served a "strictly non-alcoholic version" of the old beverage.

Kay was a chemistry teacher in the high school here for nearly a quarter of a century before he resigned three years ago to retire. It could be that his recipe was a chemical formula that preserved the flavor but eliminated the objectionable features.

Amnesty Is Asked For War Objectors

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21—(AP)—President Truman has been asked to grant Christmas amnesty to thousands of conscientious objectors.

The central committee for conscientious objectors said Sunday 70 eminent Americans had written the president asking Christmas amnesty for the objectors.

The request, the committee said, was made in behalf of those whose convictions as objectors not only resulted in their imprisonment but classed them permanently as felons deprived of civil rights.

Moonshiners In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21—(AP)—Right in the heart of Cleveland today police found a 150-gallon corn whiskey still.

Charles Walcott, head of the federal alcohol tax unit here, inspected the apparatus after a raid and said it was capable of producing 126 gallons of 120 proof liquor a week.

The still was found in an east side attic, along with 350 gallons of mash.

One man was arrested, but no charges were filed pending further investigation. He told police he had been operating only three weeks.

Steel Price Boost Probe Now All Set

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP)—The Senate-House Economic Committee will open an investigation next month into the price increase announced by U. S. Steel Corp., last week.

Chairman O'Mahoney (D-WYO) told a reporter: "we already have our staff at work on preparations and we will be ready to begin hearings sometime early in January"

Benjamin Fairless, president of the steel firm, has said he would welcome a chance to explain to Congress in detail why it was found necessary to raise the price of steel $4 a ton.

Meat Leads Drop in Price of Foods

(By The Associated Press)
Meat prices edged a shade lower in most markets this week and food men said the Christmas shopping rush was largely responsible. "Ladies dashing around buying Christmas presents apparently don't have as much time or energy--or money, either--to devote to cooking," said an agriculture department analyst. "The meat business usually slumps a little in the last couple of weeks before the holidays, and prices ease." Many of the slight reductions this week were in beef items, trimmed two to four cents a pound to compete with pork cuts which have been lowered in price several times in the past month or so. Some stores reduced a few pork items two to ten cents a pound but at least one large chain said pork prices had steadied after the long downturn. It marked up loin chops three cents a pound from last weekend. Lamb was down slightly in most places, veal about unchanged. Egg Market Slumps

Top grade eggs continued their weeks-long price decline and were being quoted two to four cents a dozen cheaper in many marketing centers as farm production held at near-record levels. During the past month eggs have dropped about 12 cents a dozen in some areas. A few brands of coffee were boosted four cents a pound at the wholesale level this week after holding steady for almost a month. The roasters involved said, however, the increases merely reflected a return to a firm pricing basis following weeks of accepting retailers' orders at a price to be fixed on the date the coffee is shipped.

"The coffee situation has settled down," said a spokesman for a major roasting concern. "Most roasters are no longer allocating limited supplies to stores, and orders have fallen off because many retailers are clearing their stocks for year-end inventories. Consumers are drinking up the excess coffee they bought during the buying rush, too. Some storekeepers think their coffee sales will drag along below normal until after New Year's." Produce Down, Too
On most produce shelves this week, snap beans, beets, cauliflower, cucumbers, radishes and squash all were somewhat lower-priced. Tomatoes were marked down as good supplies reached markets from several sources ranging from the Bahamas Islands to Florida and Texas and to Ohio hotheouses. Carrots were a little higher as cold weather damaged part of the crop in California. Peppers and new cabbage also were up slightly. Florida was shipping fresh strawberries to some northern cities but trade sources said at $1

a pint wholesale they probably were too high-priced for any but specialty markets like expensive restaurants and clubs. A small shipment of scallions from South Carolina brought $3 for two dozen in the New York wholesale market this week. A new plant to be used exclusively for processing quick-frozen French fried potatoes was scheduled for official opening today (Thursday) at Caribou, Maine, by the Birds-Eye Snider Division of General Foods. The company said demand for frozen French fries has climbed so rapidly that its 1950 pack will be 226 per cent bigger than production in the introductory year 1948. The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week declined two cents from a week ago to $5.76, and compared with $6.21 a year ago. The figure represents the total cost at wholesale of a pound each of 31 foods in general use. Oleomargarine, soap, machine oil, vitamin pills and lipstick all can be made from whale oil.

Portsmouth East Beats Lion Cagers

Despite a 20 point scoring spree by freshman forward Bob Alkire, the WHS Lion cagers took a 65 to 52 lacing from a host Portsmouth East quintet Tuesday night.

The Lion man-to-man defense was like a sieve as the Portsmouth cagers shook loose consistently in the 65-point rampage.

Although the WHS team managed to work the ball in, Alkire was the only one able to hit the net with consistency.

Time and time again blue and white clad players would come up under the basket with the ball only to miss a lay-up rebound.

After Portsmouth led by four points at the end of the first quarter, the Lions came to life and roared ahead 24 to 19.

But they soon blew that five point edge, and when the teams trotted off the floor at half-time,

Warner Servicemen Make Clean Sweep

A three-game victory and the evening's next-to-highest high team score rewarded the Warner Servicemen when they got hot in Wednesday night's Implement League bowling at Bowland. Ted Warner sparked the drive with a 606-pin total. By piling up 2638 without handicap, the Warner crew blanked the Farm Bureau.

Sons Grillers splattered the maples for a 2681 count, the top team score for the evening, as they won the first and last games from Carpenter's Hardwaremen. They lost the middle tilt by 8 pins.

Dutch Denton's boys won the first two games from the VFW through consistent bowling, but were nosed out in the finale by 46 pins.

The Mt. Sterling team took the first games of their match with the Wackmen by 25 pins, but scores of 1007 and 1021 (with handicaps) in the last game were too much for them although they did make a race of it in both.

Wayne Five Edged By Leesburg, 54-48

An invading Fairfield High team from Leesburg pulled away from a host Wayne quintet in the final quarter of the game Tuesday night to win 54 to 48.

Bill Anderson, who once more topped the 20 point mark, tied the contest up at the end of the third quarter. Then what was a nip and tuck battle all the way gradually shaded into a Fairfield victory.

Biggest thorn in the side for Good Hope was Cunningham who kept popping in screen shots from the corners.

Playing with a broken nose, Braden of Good Hope contributed a fine job of recovering rebounds for his mates as well as dropping in 15 points.

The Wayne reserves bowed in the prelim, 32 to 27.

Jeff Tigers Drop Close One, 43-41

A bucket by Ferguson of Jamestown in the final minutes of play proved the winning margin over a host Jeffersonville five Tuesday night.

The Jamestown cagers came out on top, 43 to 41, but not before the Tigers had grabbed the lead several times in the hectic fourth quarter.

High scoring honors went to Ferguson who swished the net for ten buckets and a foul shot. He was followed by D. Smith of Jeffersonville with 12 points.

The Jeff reserves fared better than their big brothers as they ran away with their game, 29 to 15.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

WHILE the Kings were battling over their breakfast table, Alicia Brandt, with a knee-length black satin coat over her purple pajamas and black mules on her bare feet, was sitting in silence and solitude. Lester had risen long ago and was now out walking with the dogs. No matter how late he went to bed the night before, he was always up in time to take the dogs for their walk. His whole life was lived that way—with a clock-like precision that nearly drove Alicia wild at times. She should be accustomed to it, of course. She had known, when she gave up the uncertainties of stage life for the certainties of life with Lester Brandt that she would have to put up with it. She had weighed the unexciting tempo of the existence he offered her in Kingsridge with the exciting tempo of the existence for which she would have to struggle on Broadway, and had decided in favor of the unexciting. If she hadn't been so tall, too tall to be a chorus girl, or had had a better voice, or a more strident salesmanship of her personality she possessed, or if her mother hadn't been so ill and she, herself, bothered with a cough she could not shake—However, those were the limitations, clearly recognized, which, added to an inertia that probably stemmed from an undernourished childhood, had given Lester the odds. At least with him she would never be hungry. But there had been many moments during those years when impatience and boredom, always seething deep within her, boiled up close to the surface. At those times the unspoken rivalry existing between her and Elizabeth King had been a safe and sure means of relief. To shock Elizabeth, to upset her, to belittle her role was a game of long-standing delight that dated back, actually, to the stormy night when Gerry's mother had been fed in Alicia's kitchen.

She was thinking now, as she drank her coffee, of that night, trying to reconcile the handsome young stranger who had appeared at the Kings' party, with the son of that awful woman, for, like wildfire, the news of who he was had spread. She had known Gerry slightly as a lad before he went off to school, the way the whole town had known him—as some one headed for no good end. Incredible that he could have returned, so changed, so completely made over. Incredible and amusing. Because what would the Kings do about him now? Plainly they had not given him too cordial a welcome. Alicia had witnessed the whole thing with intense interest. And, later, she had silently applauded Gerry's spirited exit, as, snatching up his coat and hat from the chair where Donald had dropped them, he had stomped out into the night.

Putting down her empty cup she rose from the table and strolled to the picture window that looked out to the west. From here she could see across the valley to the slate roof of Kingsridge with its enormous chimney toppling that. She could see the town, too, and her eye was caught, as Elizabeth's had been, by the spot of red against the white snow belonging to a man in a top hat.

She wasn't sure on which side Lester would be but, "I don't care," she said aloud to herself. "I really don't care." And she trailed her way up to her room to dress for the day.

It was New Year's eve, the night of the Assembly Dance to which Susan had gone with Timothy. They were on the floor now circling slowly to the music and Timothy was holding her as if she were a piece of fragile, precious porcelain. He couldn't help it. It was the way he felt about her. Always, ever since she had been an elfin child of two toddling across his mother's garden next door to the Park house and he a stalwart six, he had felt that way. He had appointed himself then as her watchful guardian and so he had remained throughout the years. No matter what he was doing, or with whom, he had an eye out for Susan. He picked her up when she fell. He comforted her when she wept. He defended her from teasing and calmed her when she went into one of her tiny rages. The disparity of six years between their ages, an enormous gap in their childhood, was ignored. And now that she was grown up to him it was forgotten. To the world of their town Susan was Timothy's girl. Everybody accepted it as a fact except Susan and Timothy. To her he was just Timothy. And he knew it. Perhaps, if he showed her what he felt—but he had never dared. His instinct told him the time was not yet ripe.

At the moment his clean-cut, well-bred face above her dark head was tight with anxiety. The whole evening she had talked about nothing but Gerry Barton. With grave yet ardent sympathy she had told of his boyhood struggle. With pride she had told of his Army career. With impish delight she had told of the impasse she had presented to her family. She was still speaking of it.

"He's going to stay here. Right at the Inn. And there isn't a thing they can do," she was saying. "What's more, they know it. They can't stop me from seeing him, either. I'm of age. Why, I could even marry Gerry if I wanted to tomorrow."

The words hit him as if they had been a physical blow. This was what he had always been afraid of—that before she ever really took a good look at him, she would see someone else. It was sickening. But he only said, "Let's go somewhere and talk."

They found a retreat under the stairs where there were two easy chairs on either side of a lamp-lit table. Here, with the music coming faintly to their ears, Susan saw Timothy's face set in a strange expression.

"What's the matter?"

He looked at her. It was incredible to him that she did not know all he was feeling. But it was his own fault. He had been so careful to demand nothing from her in the way of attention or consideration. It was enough, he had thought, to fit into the background of her life, to be there always when she wanted or needed him. Now he saw that he had too well succeeded. He was merely a prop on her stage. A prop out of place for the moment and therefore faintly troubling to her. But only faintly.

Plans To Get Water For New York Made

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 — (AP) City officials ordered "full speed" today on plans to tap the Hudson River for 100,000,000 gallons of water a day to help out in the shortage which threatens to last for years.

The Hudson tapping project -- which normally would take a year to complete and cost $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 -- is counted on to supply somewhat less than one-tenth of the city's normal consumption of well over 1,000,000,000 gallons a day.

The plan--announced yesterday -- is to run Hudson River water into the Delaware Aqueduct at Chelsea, N. Y., about 15 miles south of Poughkeepsie. The water would be purified chemically at its source, and made "ultra-safe" by routing through reservoirs.

The New York City board of water supply announced the start of plans to tap the Hudson, about 50 miles north of where it empties into New York bay.

Jungle Island Is Playground

HONOLULU, Dec. 21— (AP) —Cocoanut Island, converted from 12 acres of jungle into a millionaire's playground, was leased to a syndicate which plans to develop a resort on a honeymoon hotel.

Walter D. Child, Hawaii hotel operator, announced the leasing by the Cocoanut Island Hotel Company, LTD. Child said associates in the enterprise include City and Dudley Parker, Hamilton, O.

Leasing to the new company ended a play by Edwin W. Pauley, Los Angeles, and four partners to make the island the headquarters for an international millionaire's club. His associates were his brother Harold R. Pauley, Allen S. Chase, Phoenix, Ariz.; Samuel B. Mosher, Los Angeles, and Poncet Davis, Akron, O.

These five partners bought the property for $250,000 in 1946 from the estate of the late Christian R. Holmes, Fleischmann Yeast heir.

MAN BOUND OVER

WILMINGTON — William Athey, 45, was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on a charge of breaking into the Eagles Lodge Saturday, and stealing $150.

The jury recommended the 18-year-old youth be sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Perry Henderson, vacuum cleaner executive and father of his sweetheart Anna. Mississippi law requires that the trial judge be guided by the jury's recommendation in pronouncing formal sentence.

The youth told a lurid tale of illicit relations with his young sweetheart.

Pro Footballer Thrown for Loss

Reserve Clause Case Stands Up in Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP)—Fullback Ralph Ruthstrom, who tried to get the Washington Redskins to pay him $4,100 for a season in which he didn't play, wound up by being tackled behind his own goal line.

Federal District Judge David A. Pine yesterday ordered him to pay the Redskins $241.80.

That's what the Redskins had asked for in a counter suit. They said they had advanced Ruthstrom some money, and that he was $241.80 shy in paying it back.

Ruthstrom's argument was this: He said he had been suspended by the Redskins in 1947, and that he couldn't get another fullbacking job because of the so-called reserve clause.

This clause—it's used in baseball as well as pro football contracts—says a player can't sign with another club until he is given a written release.

The Redskins, Ruthstrom argued, wouldn't give him this release.

Judge Pine, in handing down a directed verdict, said he thought the case boiled down to this:

1. Was it a legal contract?

2. Did the plaintiff, Ruthstrom, fulfill his part of the contract?

3. If he was dissatisfied, why didn't he file a proper appeal to the commissioner?

He then directed that Ruthstrom pay up the $241.80.

Missionary Society

Miss Elsa Osborn welcomed members of the Missionary Society of the Friends Church to her home Wednesday for a one o'clock, covered dish luncheon. Members and guests were seated around a long dining table centered with lighted red tapers and an arrangement of Christmas angels and evergreen. White gifts were made to be taken to the shut-ins. Miss Lucy Rice presented each one present with "the little Bible." Miss Rice presided over the business meeting which was opened by Miss Osborn reading from the first chapter of John. Roll call was answered by a scripture verse committed to memory. Children of the members were then presented stuffed toys, which the members had made. Group singing of Christmas carols was enjoyed by 11 members and three guests. Mrs. Robert S. Peele, Mrs. Lonnie Summers and Mrs. William Willis. The January meeting will be with Mrs. Alice Langdon.

Win-A-Couple Class

The Win-A-Couple Sunday School Class of the Church of Christ met in the church basement for their meeting and a Christmas party with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case and Mr. and Mrs. Parker Wilson as hostesses. Christmas decorations were placed on the tables and a Christmas tree was enjoyed. Mrs. Case and Mrs. Wilson were in charge of devotions and the Christmas music with the group enjoying the singing of carols. Robert E. Wilson presided over the business meeting and was presented with a gift in appreciation of his services in the past year. New calendars were passed around. Members had a gift exchange and the hostesses served delicious refreshments to 26 members and their children.

Circle Three Meets

Mrs. Paul Downs was a gracious hostess to Circle Three WSCS of the Methodist Church Tuesday evening with Mrs. Paul Bernard, Mrs. Louise Hoppes, Miss Pauline Wilson and Mrs. Wayne Stackhouse as cohostesses. Christmas decorations were in evidence throughout the home when Mrs. Russell L. Allen and Mrs. Howard Thompson were in charge of devotions and the program which was on Christmas customs. Christmas carols were sung by the group which was related to the program. Mrs. Gavin Foster presided over the meeting. The hostesses served delicious refreshments to 21 members who came to enjoy the evening.

Concord Bureau Holds Meeting

Health Forms Main Discussion Topic

Members of Concord Farm Bureau No. 1 met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley and enjoyed a covered dish supper. Fourteen members and four guests were present.

Robert Case was the discussion leader for the evening and used the advisory council guide for December. The topic was "Health" or "Keeping Alive Longer", it was pointed out that people live an average of 10 years longer than in 1900.

Ohio is one of the wealthiest states and should be able to give good medical nursing and dental care to all of its citizens. The average yearly income of each man, woman, and child in 1944-46 was $1,306. In only 10 states do people have higher incomes, he stated.

Yet, 16 states provide more medical care than does Ohio and 15 states provide more dental care; 23 states provide more hospital care for children.

Ohio now has 159 local health commissioners and over 200 health districts. Many of these are too small to support a full-time director and staff.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Chairman, W. E. Sollars, Secretary, W. W. Montgomery.

The turkey supper committee appointed was Mae Montgomery and Marjorie Case. The turkey supper for the township is to be held at Staunton School on Tuesday evening January 17.

Cancellations Reach 41,000 Here Tuesday

Cancellations at the Washington C. H. Post Office Tuesday reached the surprising total of 41,400 or upward of 9,000 more than for the same date last year, when 32,720 cancellations were made.

This large number of cancellations, which was being followed Wednesday with another rush of greeting cards puts the total cancellations so far this year considerably ahead of those of last year.

A total of 487 parcels were received at the Post Office windows Tuesday.

A vast amount of incoming mail was handled during the day, and the rush was continuing Wednesday, with indications that each day until Christmas will see huge quantities of greeting cards and other mail delivered.

Mrs. Mary Flynn Called by Death

Mrs. Mary E. Flynn, 74, died at her home at 324 East Court Street about 5:10 o'clock Wednesday morning. She had been seriously ill for the last six months.

The widow of the late James Flynn, who died in 1927, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Collopy. She was born and raised in Fayette County and was a member of St. Colman's Catholic Church.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ella Reary and Mrs. Mabel Grove, both of Dayton; three brothers, Thomas Collopy of Chillicothe; Ward Collopy of Dayton and Frank Collopy of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 A. M. Friday at the St. Colman's Catholic Church. Burial will be made in the St. Colman's Cemetery. Friends may call at the Gerstner Funeral Home after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Paint Demonstration Unit Enjoys Session

The Lower Paint Home Demonstration Council held an all day aluminum tray meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert Fenner recently. The rapid approach of Christmas caused the women to work busily under the direction of Mrs. Norma Campbell, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Fenner furnished a liberal supply of fried chicken and accompanying foods and the other women brought delicious dishes to complete the buffet meal.

A Christmas gift exchange around a beautiful tree was an enjoyable feature.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lewis M. Parrett, January 19.

Members present were: Mrs. Hazel Torbett, Mrs. Edna Carman, Mrs. Maxine Cassell, Mrs. Eunice Slagler, Mrs. Robert Parrett, Mrs. Gladys Whiteside, Mrs. Amanda Howard, Miss Clara Zimmerman, Mrs. Marie Alexander, Mrs. Mary Pope, Mrs. Mary Parrett, Miss Elda Fenner, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Fenner.

Guests were Mrs. Willard Bloomer, Mrs. Gail Parrett and Mrs. Wayne Fenner and children.

PTA to Buy Play Equipment for Kids

At a short business meeting preceding a Christmas program, the Yatesville PTA voted funds to buy some playground equipment for the school.

Eugene Denen was appointed to head a committee to carry out this project.

After the business session, the meeting was turned over to the teachers, Mrs. Bertha Slagle and Mrs. Mary Mossbarger, who conducted the Christmas program.

In the school room decorated with a Christmas tree and red and green streamers, each child from the first grade through the eighth took part in the program which featured recitations, solos, duets and carol singing.

After the entertainment, sleigh bells were heard and St. Nick made his appearance to distribute candy and oranges to all the children.

The next PTA meeting will be held at the school building on Monday, January 16 with the following committees in charge: entertainment, Mrs. Ogle Fradd, Mrs. Roy Long, and Mrs. John U. Cannon; refreshment, Mrs. Glenn McCoy, Mrs. George Maxie and Mrs. Burton Long.

Xenia's Duplicate Gains $2,000,000

As result of the reappraisal of real estate in Xenia, that city's duplicate was increased by approximately $2,000,000 bringing the total to $11,071,480.

While no figures have been announced for Greene County, it is indicated that the gain will be a large one.

Last Rites Held For Ervin Smith

Funeral services for Ervin Smith were held at 2 P. M. Tuesday at the Christian Union Church in Bookwalter.

Rev. Richard Humble offered prayer while Rev. Russell Knisley read the scripture, delivered the sermon and read the obituary.

Mrs. Orville Dawes, Mrs. Elden McBee and Mrs. Raymond Huff sang the hymns "Old Rugged Cross," "Beyond the Sunset," and "Rock of Ages." They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Floyd Climes.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, cared for by the following pallbearers: Robert Ellars, Elza Knisley, Lowell Smith, Roy Love, Warren Armsstrong and Richard Goodman.

Burial was made in the Hidy Cemetery near Bookwalter under the direction of the Alvin G. Little Funeral Home of Jeffersonville.

Pennington Employees Get Hourly Wage Hikes

Employees of the Pennington Brothers Bakery Inc. got two Christmas presents within the last week or so from the management.

About a week ago all employees, with the exception of sales people working on commissions, got wage boosts, which averaged about ten cents hourly, according to Howard Wright, manager. Employees also got sizeable Christmas bonuses.

Wright said the wage boosts apply to some 100 of the 125 "local" employees. He said the wage hikes only apply to this plant.

Gibeaut Commissioned

Basil L. Gibeaut, Bloomingburg, is one of 11 advanced Army ROTC course students at Ohio State University, who received commissions as second lieutenants. Col. Charles Brewer professor of military science, administered the oath of office and presented the gold bars.

Central School Kids Give Yule Program

The children from the Central School entertained their parents and teachers with a Christmas program at the Little Theater Tuesday night.

After group singing of carols led by Mrs. L. F. Everhart, the following children were heard in performance: Dianne Elliott, piano solo, "Christmas Eve"; Rebecca Armbrust, vocal solo, "Oh! Holy Night"; "Christmas Chimes"; Hans Christian Anderson reading of "The Little Match Girl"; La Verre Johnson, reading of "A Displaced Family."

Miss Sara Keck closed the program with the reading of "The Magi's Search for the King."

Two Are Arrested By Police Tuesday Night

Ray Smith, was taken into custody by the police on a disorderly conduct charge, Tuesday night. Ray Hurler filed the charge.

Geo. Thomas Stinson, Jr., for driving 65 miles on South Fayette Street, posted $35 bond for appearance on a reckless operation charge.

Tuesday Was "Hot" For December 20

Tuesday was an unusually "hot" day, with a peak registration of 63 degrees and a minimum of 51 degrees during the night.

The abnormally warm weather will be followed by lower temperatures Thursday, it is indicated, when rain and possibly snow are forecast.

A year ago 51 was the peak and 32 the minimum for the same date.
